

Simtho Unveiled:

Launch of the World's Most Comprehensive Syriac Corpus

Join Beth Mardutho: The Syriac Institute and the Institute for Advanced Study Princeton for the official launch of the next version Simtho, the most comprehensive digital corpus of Syriac texts ever assembled. This landmark release represents over five years of dedicated work, from its initial beta version of 6 million words to its current size of over 25 million words. Leveraging cutting-edge OCR technology, artificial intelligence, and the meticulous efforts of the MelthoLab, this first formal release offers unprecedented access to Syriac literary heritage.

Don't miss this opportunity to witness the unveiling of a transformative resource for Syriac studies!
